DAYS OF INTRIGUE

Intelligence Case Study for High School Students

Sponsored by the Center for Intelligence and Security Studies and the Division of Outreach

http://olemiss.edu/ciss/summer

June 11-14
APPLICATION
• Be a ninth, tenth, or eleventh-grade student in good academic and conduct standing at the time of admission. The school can be public, private, parochial, or even home-educated.
• Have at least a 3.0 GPA.
• Complete the online application.

DEADLINES
Students must submit the application prior to May 5, 2017, to be considered.

SELECTION PROCESS
From the group of applicants, a committee comprised of University officials will select a cohort of high school student attendees from the applicant pool. The committee will rank students based on their demonstrated interest in intelligence and national security, public service, leadership, concern for others, and academic achievements. The committee will attempt to form a class with diverse interests and experiences. In addition to those selected to participate, a small number of alternates will be designated.

HOUSING
Students accepted to the program will be housed with the Summer College for High School Students in one of the University’s new dormitories. Adult staff as well as selected student counselors who serve as mentors to the participants will supervise them.

COSTS
The three-day program costs $300. To secure their spot, students must pay $100 by May 15th. The remaining amount will be due at check in. This fee covers housing, all meals, snacks, t-shirts, the ropes course, and program materials.

IMPORTANT NOTE FOR ACCEPTED STUDENTS
Check in for Days of Intrigue: An Intelligence Case Study will be Sunday, June 11th.
